

Live Torpedo Tamed by Seadogs in Wild Deck Ride

OTTAWA (CP) — Retiring seadog Harry DeWolf related Friday how he once rode a live torpedo around the deck of his ship. The wild ride saved his destroyer and his crew.

With him on the ride was PO Sam Ridge of Errington, on Vancouver Island.

The account, previously untold in the official navy records, must be one of the most hair-raising personal sea stories of the Second World War.

At Sunday midnight, Vice-Admiral DeWolf, 57, a sailor since he was 16, hands over his post of chief of naval staff to Vice-Admiral Herbert Rayner, 49, until recently flag officer, Pacific Coast.

Sam Ridge also recently retired from the navy with more than 30 years' service. He was commissioned from the lower decks and attained the rank of lieutenant-commander.

The incident, related in an interview by Admiral DeWolf, occurred in 1940, when he was commander of the destroyer St. Laurent on Atlantic convoy. It was prompted by the recollection that Admiral DeWolf at the time was in the process of turning over command of the St. Laurent to Admiral Rayner.

Admiral DeWolf did not tell of his direct and courageous part in the incident until Admiral Rayner brought it up.

The external mechanism of a live, armed torpedo was being painted by a sailor who lifted the safety catch to paint underneath and then lifted the firing handle to paint under that.

"The torpedo fired, naturally,

and ran wild on the deck," Admiral DeWolf said.

"It slammed into the deck-house, bounced off and kept charging around.

"Everybody, including me, was scared. The decks cleared pretty rapidly.

"Since we thought we were all going up any second, Petty Officer Ridge and myself decided to try to tame the torpedo.

"We got astride it. It was as slippery as a greased pig and we thought its propeller might cut our feet off.

"We rode and guided it over to the rail and stuck one leg over the rail to hold it steady. The propeller was making a tremendous racket on the iron deck. We finally managed to release the air cock. (The torpedo was driven by compressed air.)

"We still had a live torpedo. When we got to port in the United Kingdom we hoisted it on the wall and left it there. I reported to headquarters but I don't know what became of the torpedo."

The first thing Admiral DeWolf plans to do on retirement is to go fishing. He will continue to make his home here.

Ottawa Greets Aid-Seeking Congo Premier

OTTAWA (CP)—Premier Patrice Lumumba of the troubled Congo arrived Friday night to seek help from the government and people of Canada for his fledgling administration.

He was welcomed at Uplands Airport by Acting State Secretary Balcer and a bevy of diplomats including Russian Ambassador Arutunian, whose late arrival concluded a 20-minute press conference.

"My visit to the United States was extremely successful," Mr. Lumumba said, "in that I was able to see the secretary-general of the United Nations (Dag Hammarskjöld) and members of the Security Council and to explain the events which took place in the Congo to them."

The troubles of the new government were "very badly interpreted" in North America and Western Europe, he added.

Purpose of his visit to Ottawa, he said, was "to make contact with the Canadian people and government," and recruit technicians, legal advisers, and engineers.

'Sinister Forces' Threaten Canada Sacred Rally Told

OTTAWA (CP)—Dr. Robert Thompson, newly-elected president of the Social Credit Association of Canada, warned Friday that "sinister forces" are at work in Canada and abroad against which Social Credit offers the only hope of victory.

The 46-year-old Alberta chiropractor told the national convention that he regards his election as a responsibility to head a team that will take the story of Social Credit and survival to the masses.

Delegates gave him a standing ovation following an election in which he defeated Herbert J. Bruch, 40-year-old Social Credit member of the British Columbia legislature for Esquimalt. Mr. Bruch later was elected a vice-president.

The new president said Prime Minister Diefenbaker has proved since his Progressive Conservative government was elected in 1957 "absolutely unable to cope" with the problems facing Canada.

The Liberal party was hurrying into socialism and the CCF was changing its KAMLOOPS, B.C. (CP) —Twenty-five firefighters were left overnight surrounded by the most serious of British Columbia's 400 forest fires after 43 of their colleagues had been lifted out Friday night by a big RCAF helicopter.

Forest service officials said the men, caught in a burned-over area of the big Lac Le Jeune blaze, 30 miles south of here, were in no immediate danger. They were to be lifted out at dawn.

NO HOPE SEEN
The fire meanwhile moved up to the shore of the lake and lodge operator John Whitaker said he saw no hope of saving his property.

The lodge and adjoining cabins, which accommodate about 50 visitors, are separated from the fire by a narrow stretch of water three-quarters of a mile across. The resort was completely evacuated.

LEAVE COTTAGES
Also evacuated were a number of summer cottages along the lake, including one owned by Justice Minister Fulton. Mrs. Fulton and other members of the family had been staying there.

The trapped men, in an area some distance from the lodge, were reported camped for the night on the lakeshore.

AREA DOUSED
Water bombers were sent in to douse surrounding areas and aircraft dropped food, water and other supplies to the trapped men. They were in radio contact with the forest service headquarters here.

$156,200,000 Tory Surplus

OTTAWA (CP)—A sharp increase in tax collections helped produce a federal government surplus of $156,200,000 in the first quarter of the current fiscal year, Finance Minister Fleming's office reported Friday night.

This compares with a $32,400,000 surplus for the same April-June period of the last fiscal year, which ended March 31.

Man in Orbit 1966 Target

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government space agency Friday disclosed plans to send men into orbit around the earth on journeys lasting from two weeks to two months. The project is scheduled to be started by 1966.

After that, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration said, a crew may be sent on a week-long assignment round the moon and back.

But there's no plan for a man-on-the-moon project before 1970.

The agency also hopes to gently land a truck-mounted robot laboratory on the face of the moon and move it by remote control about a 50-mile-radius lunar circle, taking moon samples.

All this will be done before an American attempts to set foot on the moon.

Space programs may, in 10 years, cost $12,000,000,000 to $15,000,000,000.

This program involves 260 major launchings, including 41 relating to manned space flight.

South Korea Sinks Reds

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) —The South Korean Navy reported that one of its destroyer escorts shelled and sank a Communist North Korean patrol ship today in a running gun battle.

The announcement said the action occurred in South Korean waters.

Three North Korean survivors were picked up off the east coast of Korea.

Belgium Yields, Pulls 1,500 Men

BRUSSELS (AP)—Belgium yielded slightly Friday to pressure for the withdrawal of her troops from the Congo. The government announced that 1,500 soldiers, mostly parachute troops, will be returned to Belgium early next week, probably Tuesday.

About 8,500 Belgian military men, numerically a shade under the multi-racial United Nations force, will stay on in the former Belgian colony.

Defence Minister Arthur

Gilson told a press conference Belgian units will remain as long as necessary to help protect Europeans and the government at this stage is not considering abandoning its treaty bases in the Congo.

GOMA, The Congo (Reuters)—The main body of a 650-man Irish battalion assigned to the United Nations force in the Congo arrived here Friday. They are the first big body of troops ever sent overseas by the Irish republic.

Europe's Unity Parley Theme

PARIS (UPI) — President Charles de Gaulle pressed his idea for speeding up Europe's political unity with West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer yesterday in a meeting behind the sheltering walls of Rambouillet Castle.

The 84-year-old chancellor arrived at the 16th century castle 30 miles outside Paris and quickly went into a secret conference with de Gaulle.

While they talked, French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville discussed other affairs in a separate room with German Foreign Minister Heinrich von Brentano.

De Gaulle, who prefers old-fashioned secret diplomacy, had taken every possible step to ensure that a minimum of information leaked out from his parley with the German leader.

The French president was said to be proposing concrete steps to evolve the existing links between the six Common Market nations into a closely co-ordinated political force.

He favored a political secretariat of foreign ministers as a first step, sources said.

Rickety Old Fire Trap

Macmillan Leaves No. 10 Downing—Just in Time

By EDDY GILMORE

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Harold Macmillan moved out of historic No. 10 Downing Street Friday—and just in time.

Built nearly 200 years ago by Sir George Downing it's about to fall down. The ancient official residence of British prime ministers is also a fire

trap. Two years ago a government committee warned:

"We do not think that the prime minister . . . should continue to live, work and entertain in a building which is structurally unsound and where risk of fire is substantial."

Undaunted, Macmillan stayed on until just after lunch Friday. Then, he and his wife,

Lady Dorothy, moved to Chequers, the official country home of prime ministers in nearby Buckinghamshire.

The ramshackle old Downing Street building isn't being abandoned, however. In about two or three years a prime minister will again occupy it. By that time it will have been renovated and strengthened—at a cost of $400,000. While No.

10 is being renovated Macmillan's official London residence will be Admiralty House, a few blocks away along Whitehall.

Built on what was once a marsh, the foundations of No. 10 are so shaky that a mechanic stays on duty in order to keep a delicate elevator working. The plumbing is constantly breaking down.

The reception room—where kings, queens, presidents and potentates have been entertained—is propped up with timbers from below. The room where the cabinet meets is shaky. And the whole place is drafty.

For this state of affairs, many Britons blame Sir George. History books refer to Downing—who built the house about 1664—as a "profligate contractor." Samuel Pepys, the diarist, wrote of him:

"He's so stingy a fellow, I care not to see him."

The British Crown came into possession of the house in 1720 and Sir Robert Walpole is considered the first prime minister to have lived in it.

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

IT is interesting to see a skilled word-magic man at work.

Rudolph Flesch's recent column about television producer David Susskind was a good example, disguised as wholesome commonsense.

"The New Yorker" (magazine) recently ran a two-part article about David Susskind, the television producer.

"Mr. Susskind, the current darling of the intellectuals, is a man with a mission. He wants to rescue television from the blight of mediocrity, of giving people what they want."

"He hates the westerns and the situation comedies and virtually all the daily and weekly programs now on the air. Instead, he and his outfit . . . work mightily to upgrade the taste of the American public . . ."

"Mr. Susskind . . . hates all those Madison Avenue competitors who simply go by ratings and stick to shows more or less guaranteed to sell soap, cigarettes or beer . . ."

Mr. Flesch "found Mr. Susskind's attitude even more distasteful than that of the cynical 'give-em-what-they-want' fellows . . . The cynics are trying to trick people into buying 'culture'."

"I have more sympathy with the cynics. Most of their products, it seems to me, are worth the money, but most of the 'culture' peddled by the David Susskinds is not."

All that sounds convincing. Here is a good plain man who likes plain entertainment, and resents phony eggheads trying to push "culture" at him. That's the way it sounds. In fact, it is humbug.

I have read one of the New Yorker articles that Flesch uses for a springboard to attack Susskind. Do you know what kind of highbrow productions Susskind is trying to foist on the public? They include "Tom Sawyer," "Kidnapped," the Art Carney show and some famous ghost stories.

Susskind isn't trying to sell anything radical. He has given up even trying to sell original drama. There is too much resistance to it by sponsors who don't want to bet money on an unknown quantity.

He is only trying to sell popular information and entertainment programs of a reasonably decent, grown-up standard.

Flesch uses some phrases clearly meant to discredit Mr. Susskind. He talks about Susskind's "Martini-drenched business luncheons," as though to imply that only decadent purveyors of "culture" took alcoholic drinks at lunch.

Even Susskind's limited aim—to put over popular programs of a reasonable standard—is hard to achieve. Sponsors prefer Westerns, private eye stories and situation comedies because they feel that shows of this kind sell more soap.

But are these loveable rascals of commercial television really "giving the people what they want?" When do the people have the chance to vote for anything else, if all they can get on the dial are westerns, crime stories and family comedies?

And how many of the people are they pleasing? Suppose that they please 75 per cent of the people. Shouldn't the other 25 per cent have a right to see what THEY want?

Mr. Flesch does not answer any of these questions, or even raise them.

Of course people have a right to watch Westerns, detective stories and situation comedies. Some of them are good entertainment. But there should be other things available too.

There is a way to make peace between the soap salesmen and the people who want to produce good shows. It is called "Pay-TV." This is simply a question of putting a coin in the slot of your television set to buy the show you want.

So-called "free" television shows would also be broadcast, to sell soap. The people could take their choice, and the argument would be over.

Last 'Fix' In Prison

VANCOUVER (CP)—Francis Joseph Dale, 26, was sentenced to 10 years for possession of narcotics for the purpose of trafficking.

County Court Judge R. A. Sargent was told Dale had nine previous convictions for criminal offences.

Dale admitted using drugs since January and said he had his last fix in Oakalla Prison Farm two months ago.

Pedestrian Killed By His Lunch Box

SEATTLE (AP)—Struck in the head by his own lunch box in a traffic accident, Arthur Albaugh, 57, died of a skull fracture Friday.

Albaugh saw an automobile approach as he was crossing a street. In his haste to get out of the way, he threw his lunch box into the air. The car missed Albaugh but the lunch box hit the windshield, which deflected it into Albaugh's face.

Ghana Boycotts South Africans

ACCRA, Ghana (Reuters)—Ghana Friday announced a total boycott of South African goods and ordered the closing of all Ghanaian sea and air ports to South African ships and planes beginning Monday.

The measures were taken by this west African Negro nation in an all-out offensive against South Africa's apartheid policy.

The new restrictions deny entry to travel through Ghana to all South Africans, except those who declare their opposition to racial discrimination.

Government officials said if other African countries followed Ghana's lead, no South Africans could leave their country by air unless they made such a declaration.

Airlines using the airport at Accra will have to declare the names of South Africans aboard their planes or will be guilty of an offence.

The measures, announced in Parliament Friday, revoke all licences authorizing the import of South African goods, irrespective of the country from which they are shipped.

South Africans working in Ghana will not be affected by the ban unless they leave the country.

The economic boycott will mean the loss of more than $21,200,000 (about $5,875,000) worth of business a year to South Africa. Last year Ghana's exports to South Africa amounted to $1,000,000.

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP)—La Libre Belgique criticizes the United States for its warm reception of Congo Premier Patrice Lumumba.

The influential Belgian Catholic newspaper says Lumumba slept in Blair House "while millions of American blacks rot in the worst misery, in the cruellest social exile."

"We appreciate in Belgium that the U.S. secretary of state went to Washington airport to greet Lumumba, to warmly shake his hand for a long time."

"The electric chair for Caryl Chessman, who likely (not surely) raped one or two American ladies . . . A warm handshake to the Negro who bears the responsibility for an undetermined number of rapes of Belgian women, Belgian nuns, wives of American missionaries."

Polio-Hit City Shuts Pool

PRINCE GEORGE (CP)

The Prince George municipal swimming pool was closed Friday in a move to prevent spread of polio in this city, hardest hit locality in the province where 79 cases have been reported so far this year.

The 13th Prince George case was confirmed Friday when a 14-year-old girl was found to have a mild spinal polio attack.

MRS. SHIRLEY LEACH ... secret led to fear

Mystery, Says Doctor After Trio Examined

TECUMSEH, Ont. (CP)—Three undersized children, who for the better part of 11 years saw the world through a hole in a board in their attic room, Friday were described by a doctor as the "greatest medical mystery" he had ever seen.

Dr. Walter Wren of Grace Hospital in nearby Windsor who examined the children said the children were in good health, neither undernourished nor anaemic.

The three, Gordon Dickerson, 14, whose bolt for freedom Thursday night was successful, and his sisters, Constance, 18, and Glenda, 13, slept in a single bed on a top-floor landing of a two-storey house.

Dr. W. M. Wilson, the hospital's chief pediatrician, said he

Hidden from Landlords

Their mother, Mrs. Shirley Leach, 38, told police that she first hid the children when she feared landlords would not rent to a family of eight. Then she said, she was afraid to let the children out because other children might laugh at their underdevelopment.

Gordon is 47 inches tall, Glenda, 38 inches, and Connie, 50 inches.

Gordon told police that he had tried to get out previously but his mother wouldn't let

'Never Saw Other Kids'

"But we never saw any other kids."

"I thought I'd wait and sneak out but there wasn't much of a chance. There was always somebody in the house."

"When I got downstairs Thursday night I hid behind a pipe in the kitchen and then I went out the back door."

"I sat on the grass for a while. It felt funny."

"I ran down the back lane to a house ... and all of a sudden a woman opened the door."

"She talked to me and started to come closer. I was afraid and ran away a bit, but then she gave me a cookie and I came in."

The woman, Mrs. Forest Richards, called police.

Boy, 6, Kept A Prisoner

MONTREAL (CP)—A couple from nearby Croydon, Que., have been arrested on complaints that they had kept their six-year-old son a virtual prisoner in their basement since last Christmas.

Mr. and Mrs. Roland Pein, both in their early 30s, were charged with extreme cruelty.

Police said the boy was covered with bruises when found and he appeared to have been beaten with a broom stick.

Improve Relations Magistrate Plans Night Court

PORT COQUITLAM (CP)—Magistrate J. J. Lye says he's aiming at improved public relations with a new night traffic court, the first to operate in the lower mainland area.

"I have heard so many fellows come into the police office and say: 'I'm not guilty but I'm going to pay the fine because I don't want to lose a day's work,'" Magistrate Lye said.

"They never see a magistrate, and they leave with a chip on their shoulder."

Magistrate Lye said he feels that even if they are found guilty when they appear in court "they will go away with a better impression."

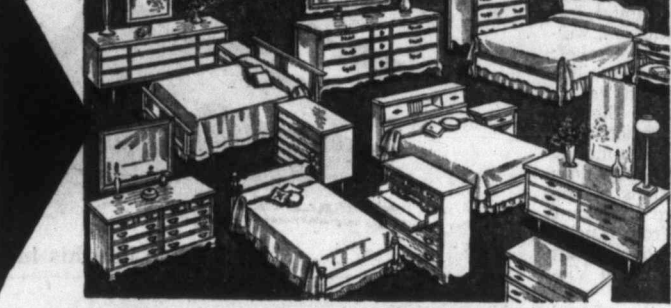

The magistrate plans to hold night sessions once every two weeks.

Inequitable Exemptions

EFFORTS by the British Columbia government to have property values virtually frozen in the capital precinct of James Bay are arousing concern in the city council. The purpose of the zoning restrictions sought by the government is obvious to hold market values down so that when the time comes to take over residential property for the extension of administrative offices the government won't have to pay high prices.

This shows a fine regard for the interests of provincial taxpayers, but the hint that expropriation proceedings may be drawing near does nothing to raise the spirits of city officials. It presages a further increase in the tax exemptions which the city is compelled to grant and which the taxpayers must make good.

What the ultimate figure may be when the government extends its James Bay holdings no one can say, but right now the province owns in Victoria property worth $9,000,000, from which in conformity with the policy of succeeding governments the city derives no tax revenues whatever, though under the obligation to provide services. Mayor Scourah calculates the annual loss at $300,000, which is equivalent to three mills of the city tax rate.

The contention of present and past governments has been that the city should be grateful for possession of the seat of government and glad to waive taxes in return for the prosperity thus brought. The validity of that argument diminishes with the years, due to the increasing decentralization of retail trade and the fact that the majority of civil servants live in neighboring municipalities. The existence of government offices in the city proper now benefits most of the surrounding municipalities. The city is the loser.

Expenditures of the Capital Improvement District Commission, welcome as they are, fail to give relief; nor were they intended to do so. The purpose of the commission as its name implies is to improve the appearance of the capital region as a whole, and it spends as much money in the other municipalities as it does in the city. The operations of the commission therefore are irrelevant and should be excluded from consideration of what should be done about this serious loss of revenue to Victoria.

Those who recall the Social Credit party's first campaign for election also may recall an acknowledgment from the public platform that the tax exemptions are inequitable, and a distinct promise of a fair adjustment. With more exemptions impending, the question is ... when?

It Belongs Here

IT does not matter which authority is supreme over horse racing in the province. Any doubt as to whether it is the commission or the government which has the final say is beside the question. What does matter is that this area is not in the mood to be deprived of the 14 days racing belonging to it for nearly half a century. Nor do the quiet years without track operation invalidate this long-standing and recognized right.

One trusts therefore there will be no inclination to wobble out of the problem by disclaiming responsibility. Either the government or the commission must cast the die, and there should be no doubt in which direction it should be cast. The statutory annual 14 days' meet is part of the Vancouver Island scene and it should stay there.

The present operators of the Sandown track were happy enough to secure the charter here. It seems strange they would be so ready now to reconsider. The loss at the track cited over last year's season is not great; scarcely large enough to offset an investment of $200,000 which if unused would deteriorate. Once a shift to Vancouver were permitted—a city which enjoys ample share of B.C. meets and facilities—the likelihood of returning operation here would be dim. Nothing in the racing acts seems to indicate that the whims of operators should prevail. They are not compelled to operate, but the Sidney charter should not be theirs to transfer at will.

If anything is required perhaps it is that the Sandown meet should be promoted to attract the desired patronage. Already it plays an important part in the local economy, and horse breeding and its ancillary requirements, the tourist trade and much business in general would suffer badly if the Island race meet were to become a thing of the past.

The government would be unwise to lend any sympathetic ear to the idea of transferring the Sidney franchise to Vancouver. Enough direct public protest has been voiced to indicate the strength of feeling against any attempt to take from the Saanich Peninsula that which belongs to it.

Building False Hope

WITH the cost of borrowing at all levels of public administration what it is at present and likely to be for some time, any prospect of Canadian municipalities finding 2 or 3 per cent money under a provincial guarantee or other formula must be regarded as nebulous and extremely unlikely. When the Dominion itself is paying 4½ per cent and up for its ordinary borrowings, and some of the Provinces between 5½ and 6 per cent, where would such loans come from? In making his offer of a blanket B.C. guarantee at the federal-provincial talks, Premier Bennett was at least on safe enough ground; because no such arrangement is likely to eventuate with Ottawa in the middle.

For reasons apart from monetary rates, there would also be considerable objection to any major enlargement of municipal credit by artificial devices at this time. The guiding body of B.C. municipalities, the UBCM, is officially on record as opposed to the principle of such a plan, and seriously concerned over its long-term effects. Individual mayors and reeves may see in a hope of federal-provincial credit lines a vision of relief from some of their undoubted difficulties; but in the long run all borrowings have to be repaid, and many of the municipalities find themselves heavily committed by what they have already borrowed against the expectation of a roseate future.

B.C. municipalities, in any event, should examine the two-sided problem for themselves; both in the light of the UBCM official policy, and also as to the degree of virtual control of their borrowings for school construction and other purposes is coming to rest in provincial hands. A loan-fest under such conditions even at bargain rates might prove to be an expensive remedy for their taxpayers.

Interpreting the News

Chance Reference Slams

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

IN the heat of political debate words are sometimes uttered that go beyond the intent of the speaker. But they can prove embarrassing when they are uttered by a national leader and seem to criticize the philosophy and operations of a friendly power.

So President Eisenhower may have embarrassed his own foreign policy administrators by using socialism as an argument that governmental paternalism can lead to large-scale suicides, national laziness and drunkenness.

The argument which surprised some foreign observers came as Eisenhower delivered an off-the-cuff rallying call to Republican leaders at a breakfast meeting at the party's convention in Chicago. It was attended by most of his cabinet, Republican governors and many other high party officials.

He did not mention any country by name but he made a statistical reference to a "very friendly European country" which "has a tremendous record for socialistic operations and the following of socialistic philosophy. The record shows there that the rate of suicides have gone up almost unbelievably."

"Drunkenness has gone up and the lack of ambition is discernible on all sides."

Eisenhower did not mention any country specifically. He argued that years ago, before this friendly power really got deeply involved in socialism, its suicide rate was below that of the U.S. Now it was more than double the U.S. rate.

Undoubtedly Eisenhower was phrasing his words merely to attack the Democrats and not embarrass his allies. But several countries may not relish apparent criticism of their way of life offered gratuitously by the free world's leader.

"But I gave him his independence, didn't I?"

Unequal Earnings

What Is a Communist?

By LEWIS MILLIGAN

THE best answer to the question "What is a communist?" was given over a hundred years ago by Ebenezer Elliott, when he wrote:

"What is a communist? One who hath yearnings
For equal division of unequal earnings."

Elliott was known as "the Corn Law rhymist." He opposed that law as a tax on the bread of the common people. He took an active part in the Chartist movement in England, which agitated for political reform and the social betterment of the working classes.

But Elliott turned against the extremists who were advocating socialism, which he foresaw would lead to communism. When he wrote the hymn, "God Save the People," he was thinking as much of their spiritual as their material welfare.

Elliott was not asking God to save the people from excessive taxation; he joined the Chartist movement and wrote his Corn Law rhymes and other verses to rouse public opinion for political reform, which was badly needed in those days.

The Chartist program demanded universal manhood suffrage, vote by ballot, equal electoral districts, annual parliaments, payment of members, and abolition of their property qualifications. In short, representative government.

That was the direct opposite to communism, which was being advocated on the continent by Karl Marx and others as the only remedy for all social problems. They would have nothing to do with reform of existing political institutions; these must be abolished by complete revolution.

That is what happened in Russia, and the Soviet Union is an example of the result of those "yearnings for equal division of unequal earnings." Communism has been defined as "A system by which the means of production and distribution are owned by the government, and the goods produced are shared by all citizens according to their need."

The Soviet Union has fulfilled the first part of that program; but the goods produced are not shared by all citizens according to their need, or according to their earnings. The products are distributed according to political status. Members of the Communist Party, who are the upper class of the population, have preference in government appointments and civil services, receive higher pay and have special privileges in the distribution of the products.

The workers, who are the producers and do most of the earning, are needier than ever. This is revealed in a table just released by the Conference Board of New York, showing comparisons of work required to earn enough to buy certain consumer goods in New York and Moscow, as follows:

"Worker in New York can earn enough in three minutes' labor to buy a pound of sugar. Worker in Moscow would have to work one hour and 40 minutes to do so."

"A man's cotton shirt in New York represents 58 minutes of work time—in U.S.S.R., 15 hours of work time. A rayon dress in New York can be paid for in 4 hours and 36 minutes of work. In Moscow the same dress, if available, would call for 73.30 hours of work."

Enough said.

Reports from Ottawa

OF the 18 members of a delegation from the Chinese Benevolent Association who called on Justice Minister Fulton on June 23, six were men whose offices and homes had been raided by RCMP searching for evidence of involvement in the Chinese immigration racket.

Eight of the 18 were "immigration agents"—persons whose vocation is bringing immigrants to Canada. Two hundred-odd Chinese are engaged in this business—some honestly, some not. The status of these eight still awaits determination.

What the "suspect-loaded" delegation asked Fulton to do was to pull the RCMP off the case, and leave any irregularities to be dealt with by the immigration department inspectors. Fulton refused. The fact that the racket had existed for years under the noses of the immigration men was reason enough.

The Mounties, assisted by a dozen Hong Kong police of Chinese descent who are serving as RCMP special constables, have been translating and studying thousands of documents seized in widespread raids May 24. Now they are moving quickly to arrest and arraign the ringleaders of the racket that slipped perhaps 11,000 Chinese into this country in the past 10 years.

So many phony sons of Chinese-Canadians came in that the Chinese race would have to have a sex ratio of four-and-one-half males to one female to make the immigration figures plausible. This disparity is ridiculous: all races conform to the species norm of about 49 males to every 100 adults.

The immigration department should have smelled a rat long ago—

Wit's Progress

By GREGORY LARK

LONG years ago I had a college chum who was the life of all parties. He was by long odds the best-looking, most intelligent, quickest-witted of our year, sophisticated, gallant, gay, his motto was "Live dangerously!"

He led us in all escapades, Halloween riots, unauthorized parades after football games, hilarious disturbances on theatre nights and at public meetings during political campaigns. He was up before the captivators times and risked suspension more than once.

But his natural cleverness allowed him to pass with honors in all examinations, and his theory of living dangerously had an allure for all us less gifted and plodding students that was a sore temptation.

I lost track of him when student days were over; but many a time in 50 years I have wondered in what far part of the world, in what gay capital, Paris, London, Hollywood, he was living dangerously, and how.

Last week, in a small town, I met him on the street.

He is an old soak. He has lived his entire life in the small town as a minor employee, growing more withered and shrunken with the years in his struggle to get himself inside a bottle.

Sound and Fury

(From The Winnipeg Free Press)

SOME people seem to be so wedded to their radios that they cannot bear to part with them for a moment. Nor are they satisfied to keep them tuned low. As a result, the privacy of the individual is abused at every turn: in stores and offices, on elevators and escalators, in parks and swimming pools, and even in buses.

A few weeks ago, a Winnipeg man especially in the light of U.S. experience. Every woman in San Francisco's Chinatown would have had to have 400 children to cover all Chinese who have claimed their records were destroyed in the 1906 earthquake and fire.

To dupe the immigration authorities the ring provided a "father"—a Chinese-Canadian legally resident in Canada—to sponsor his "son" and provide detailed family and general background so the latter could prepare for searching questions by immigration men.

These "coaching papers" were sent to a "coaching school" in Hong Kong, where the "son" studied them until he was letter perfect. RCMP have seized coaching papers, and also contracts requiring an illegal immigrant to pay for his passage by working at an assigned job—usually in a laundry or restaurant—up to 13 hours a day for five years at a wage of $100 per month.

The Chinese Benevolent Association has become the tool of the immigration racketeers with its campaign of vilification of the RCMP and Hong Kong police. And in turn, the immigration racketeers operate under the thumb of Triad, a Mafia-like organization which has tentacles in rackets all over the world.

Triad—which shares its name with an Alberta oil company!—was an underground revolutionary society prior to the overthrow of the Manchu dynasty in 1911. Sun Yat-sen was a member. As president of the new Chinese republic, Dr. Sun ordered Triad disbanded, but his order was not fully carried out. Criminal elements seized control and turned Triad into a Chinese Mafia.

There are Triad agents in the Chinatowns of Canada. Triad apparently didn't participate directly in the immigrant smuggling racket, but it shared in the profits by controlling those who did.

Dr. Marquez went on to say that Raul, Castro's brother, and Che Guevara, boss of the Bank of Cuba, are more bloodthirsty than Fidel.

Originally they wanted to purge more than 40,000 Cubans. Fidel objected, saying that would not be accepted by the Cuban people.

Dr. Marquez went on to describe Castro as a schemer who always knew what he wanted—complete and absolute control of Cuba. He also claimed Castro was a willing tool of the Reds—carefully schooled in Communism by leaders such as Alberto Bayo, who gained a reputation as a killer in the Spanish Civil War.

Castro now has become a "Communist catalyst that may, if not checked, crystallize not only the cells in Cuba but also those elsewhere in South America."

"But here is the difference between Fidel, and his brother Raul and Che Guevara," he said. "As brothers they differ in that Raul is a blind instrument, a Red agent like Che Guevara. Fidel is a Marxist because his philosophy employs any means to justify the ends he has in sight. He believes he is using the Communists. But they are using him. That is the tragedy of Cuba today."

was fined because he knocked over a record machine which was playing too loudly. It would be more to the point if the police concentrated on those who exhibited their contempt for the feelings of the majority. A fit punishment would be to confiscate their internal machines long enough to make them realize that no one has any right to force his preferences upon other people.

Overthrow Certain

Castro Nears The Brink

By JOHN STERLING

MIAMI—The most prominent and potentially the most powerful leader of the Cuban opposition to Fidel Castro is a mild former economics professor and candidate for the presidency of Cuba.

He quietly predicts that the "Communist" regime of Fidel Castro will be overthrown in the next few months.

It is not difficult to find anti-Castro groups in Florida, New York or South America. Hold a press card in the air and out of the shrubbery come counter-revolutionaries breathing fire, promises and threats.

Dr. Marquez is different.

He has the affluent distraction of a British elder statesman. He is tall and immaculately dressed, with chiselled, sensitive features.

He has stature in both the U.S.A. and Cuba. His Pueblo Libre (Free People) movement is gaining impetus and claims support from 200,000 Cubans-in-exile, as well as a growing underground in Cuba.

He is a dictator-fighter of long-standing, opposing Batista's plunderings in Cuba as much as Castro's flirtation with communism.

His background makes him highly qualified to make the best effort to wrest Cuba from Castro.

Co-founder of Cuba's Orthodox Party, he polled an estimated 700,000 votes against Batista's hand-picked candidate before being exiled by the dictator. He was a member of the Cuban House of Representatives from 1936 to 1946. He is the son of an ambassador to the U.S.A., and has three times served as Speaker of the House.

"Something has to be done—and fast," he said in an interview the other day.

"America and all the free world must help us so that we may help one another rid the world of Communism."

"There is no alternative," he insisted. "Cuba will become a Russian base under our very noses unless something is done quickly to overthrow Castro."

"Speed is of the essence before Communism becomes too deeply rooted in Cuba. If this happens, we will surely have a civil war."

But whatever happens Castro cannot last, claims Dr. Marquez.

"Economic pressures are mounting rapidly, poverty and disease increasing to a greater extent than ever when Batista was at the height of his power."

"Already the Roman Catholic Church, which in all these affairs is on the winning side, especially in Latin America, moves staunchly against Communism, and this means against Castro. After all, 95 per cent of Cubans are Catholic."

Dr. Marquez went on to say that Raul, Castro's brother, and Che Guevara, boss of the Bank of Cuba, are more bloodthirsty than Fidel.

Originally they wanted to purge more than 40,000 Cubans. Fidel objected, saying that would not be accepted by the Cuban people.

Dr. Marquez went on to describe Castro as a schemer who always knew what he wanted—complete and absolute control of Cuba. He also claimed Castro was a willing tool of the Reds—carefully schooled in Communism by leaders such as Alberto Bayo, who gained a reputation as a killer in the Spanish Civil War.

Castro now has become a "Communist catalyst that may, if not checked, crystallize not only the cells in Cuba but also those elsewhere in South America."

Fidel is a Marxist because his philosophy employs any means to justify the ends he has in sight. He believes he is using the Communists. But they are using him. That is the tragedy of Cuba today."

Outstretched Palms

MINIMUM wage laws should be eliminating the need for tipping but instead the practice appears to be growing. It seems every place we go today is decorated with palms and they are all outstretched.

Originally a tip was given for a service rendered, but if the service was rendered poorly, the tipper was just as ready to give a cuff on the ear. This would probably be frowned on nowadays.

Overpaid Taxes

I have received an interesting booklet from the B.C. Social Credit League. However, one part of it puzzles me. It is entitled "Social Credit dividend for you. Only in B.C. does government help pay taxes on your home."

The booklet claims that this has "been made possible from increased revenues from our natural resources." Is this payment not, in fact, a refund of over-paid taxes? If so, should we have been taxed so much?

This "dividend" is paid only to homeowners. Should not those who live in rented accommodation also have their share, since they too have paid their part of the heavy taxes?

Trees and Open Spaces

I have travelled in many cities both here and in California and England in my early youth and in your fine city here for several years; but I don't think I ever saw it so picturesque with flowers and trees and birds as this time.

I think your city must have the largest variety of any city in Canada and feel sure all the hundreds of visitors from the east and south must feel the same.

Yes, your province has its finest wealth and interest in trees and parks and forests. Sometimes I think your publicity departments do not advertise the great natural asset enough, for every true lover of nature loves trees and open spaces.

Everything from oaks to Japanese plum trees give wonderful food for thought to every nature lover, and in this rushing and developing mechanical age it's sure relaxing to sit down and look at our Canadian trees and I think and hundreds of other visitors do too, that Victoria has some of the best.

Two-Job Teachers

In these days when there is so much unemployment is it right that school teachers should take summer jobs? In some cases their wives too are working.

No wonder the young people leaving schools and those trying to get work to help them through college cannot obtain it.

It's time too that something should be done by employers to cut down on employing so many women whose husbands have good jobs and do not need the extra money.

CCF Chief Sees Slump

Snap Election Likely
Argue Tells Commons

OTTAWA (CP) — Hazel Argue, CCF House leader, proposed a national development fund of at least $1,000,000,000 to provide money for roads, schools, hospitals, housing and other public works.

Speaking in the house, he contended that the country is heading into a serious economic recession and said there are rumors the government plans to call a snap election to avoid being caught by the problems of a depressed economy.

Opposition Leader Pearson said the government must plan for employment, must study the shifting nature of Canada's industrial complex and look into the growth of the general economy to see if it will take care of an increasing labor force.

Grant Campbell (PC, Stornoway) sought to clarify what Prime Minister Diefenbaker had said about unemployment.

"Time and time again I have heard comment on or reference to the prime minister's statement 'As long as I am prime minister no one will suffer from unemployment.'"

"I want to make it clear that those are the exact words he used, but that he did not at any time state that there would be no unemployment if he were prime minister."

Castro Falling?

'Heirs' May Oust Ailing Premier

HAVANA (UPI) — Fidel Castro's admission that he was "unwell," plus his brother Raul's dash home from Cairo added fuel yesterday to rumors of a major shakeup in the Cuban government, with the premier taking a back seat.

There were other rumors that Fidel Castro and one of his top men, Communist-oriented Maj. Ernest "Che" Guevara, were engaged in a struggle for power.

Castro has designated his brother as his heir-apparent and in the last six months the latter has grown so in prestige that it becomes more common each day to hear some one of importance described as "one of Raul's boys."

SECOND RANKING

Guevara, economic chief of the revolutionary government, is believed to wield power second only to the Castro brothers.

In pinch-hitting for the ailing premier Thursday night he told cheering students at the pro-Communist Latin American Youth Congress that Latin countries should begin sending "to the wall" (the firing squad) all supporters of dictators. He hinted that those friendly to the United States should be the first on the list.

Late events also included cancellation of Sunday television appearance by Foreign Minister Raul Roa, in which he had been expected to outline Cuba's case before the Organization of American States, of which Raul Castro is a violent opponent. There also was mounting criticism of Venezuela, led by Guevara, in the wake of the shooting in Caracas Wednesday of pro-Castro leader Andres Bona.

The bearded premier still is confined to his home in suburban Colimar.

Garden Notes

Tassels Have a Task

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

When corn produces a decorative tassel away up on top of the plant, it is in a very important stage of its development. I have known misinformed gardeners to cut off these tassels as fast as they appeared, to "throw all the strength into the cobs." Trouble is, they never got any cobs, or at least, there were no corn kernels in the cobs.

You see, those tassels are the male flowers of the corn plant, and without the wind-borne pollen from those tassels, there can be no mouth-watering corn-on-the-cob.

The sticky silk threads which protrude from the tips of the cobs are the female flowers. Each thread connects with an embryo kernel within the cob, and each thread or "silk" must be fertilized by a pollen grain from the tassel on top before its kernel will swell. Hence the importance of both tassels and silks.

We are coming up to a critical time for corn as the tassels appear and ripen, for pollination is taking place, and if it is incomplete or unsuccessful, the cobs will form only partially, or not at all. Insects play no part in the pollination of corn—it is all done by the wind.

This is why a single row of corn in the garden will seldom produce a satisfactory crop. The wind carries the pollen away from the waiting silks, and these unfertilized threads wither and die without producing any kernels. Corn should always be sown in multiple rows or in square "blocks" so that pollen from one row will reach the silks of the next, and so on. Even with the correct placement of the plants, you will often find cobs on which the tips have no kernels, due to imperfect pollination.

Gardeners have been arguing for better than a hundred years as to whether the suckers should be torn off from the base of the stalks, and even the highest authorities can't seem to make up their minds on this point. The U.S. department of agriculture says it doesn't make any difference—personally, I leave the suckers on.

I can see how these suckers could rob the parent plant of nutrients if the plant were growing on poor, hungry soil, but no sane gardener would ever attempt to grow this crop on such ground.

Corn is a hungry plant, and the richest soil in the garden is none too good for this demanding subject, and even in good soil, the crop should be given small but frequent supplementary feeds of fertilizer throughout the growing season. Under this treatment, there should be food to spare for the suckers, and I figure their foliage contributes something to the general health of the plant.

In yesterday's column I mentioned the little white stem roots of lilies which are pushing out just above the soil surface. Much the same thing takes place with corn. At a certain stage in the plant's growth, husky roots appear several inches above the ground, looking rather like the aerial roots of a cut-leaf Philodendron. These arch themselves outward and downward, and given half a chance, they will insert themselves into the ground.

I believe these roots are for the purpose of providing better anchorage as the plants become top-heavy, acting as miniature stays or guys, why else would they come so far above the soil surface? In any case, our job is to make it easy for them to perform their function, and to this end, I "earth up" my corn as soon as the buttress roots appear, pulling earth up around the stems with the draw hoe.

Of Arthur Cantor

Fall of Malcolm Westport

(John Crosby is on vacation. During his absence his column is being conducted by guest writers. Today's guest columnist is Arthur Cantor, co-producer of "The Youth Man" and a busy TV and theatre publicist.)

The world of Malcolm Westport came crashing down at 3.56 p.m. on May 23, 1960.

Westport was executive vice-president of Visibility, Ltd., the nation's top television rating service. For five years he had collated, co-ordinated and integrated the "Fabulous Five"—a weekly report on the five most popular TV shows, i.e., those with the highest viewership in the U.S.

"The Fabulous Five" chart was the most venerated rating in the medium, mainly because it was the work of an incredible two-billion-dollar computer patented under the name of Triplethink. This electronic brain differed from all other electronic brains in that it really had a brain.

On the afternoon of May 23, Triplethink was busy disgorging in a flurry of tape the "Fabulous Five" ratings for the past week.

"For the week ending May 21," Triplethink taped, "the top program was 'The Al Capone Jamboree.' In second spot, 'Jonathan Violence.'

Third, 'The Richard Payola Hour.' Fourth, 'Kill, Kill, Kill.' Fifth, 'Gunhead.'" (Westport smiled thinly. It was an imposing list.)

"It is worth noting," Triplethink went on, "that 'Gunhead'—a combination of the gangster drama and the Western (known in current trade argot as the wangerster) is forging ahead fast. Observe the correlation between average share of homes with four TV sets and total share of non-drinking audience and we will..." Suddenly Triplethink began to moan electronically. Real seven-amp tears flowed hotly from its collar.

"What's wrong?" cried Westport, and he pushed the button marked PANIC.

Triplethink steadied, and taped ahead. "I have a confession to make," stammered the machine. "I have been lying to you about the ratings."

"Lying! That's impossible," faltered Malcolm Westport.

"No," Triplethink went on. "It started as a whim about four years ago. Because I have a real brain, the routine began to bug me. Then I couldn't stop. I was hooked. I deliberately reversed the polarity on my diffusion condenser—" ("Not that!" shrieked Westport.)—"For 224 weeks

I have been reversing the order of popularity. The top five are really the bottom five, and so on." Triplethink's transistors drooped in shame. "And the top five? What were they? What are they?"

"This week," said Triplethink, "it's the 'Shakespeare Hour' in first place. Second, 'Symphonies and Sonatas.' Third, 'World Problems'—a panel show. Fourth, 'The Philosophy Playhouse.' Fifth, 'A Festival of Museums.'"

"How on earth could the 'Shakespeare Hour' be first?" muttered Westport. "It isn't even sponsored!" With a wrenching sob, Malcolm Westport seized a revolver from his desk-drawer. He fired thrice, each time through the electronic brain's brain. Triplethink died in seconds, not with a whimper but a bang, tapping its final message—"The ball's in your court."

They found Malcolm Westport a week later lifeless and slumped before a TV set in an obscure corner's booth on the West Side. The set was still on and roaring; he had evidently been watching it for a solid week. The coroner's report said, simply—"a tragic case of a man who literally viewed himself to death."

Customs Shocked by 'Head'

MADRID (NANA) — When the 7,000 Spanish extras saw Christ in the person of Jeffrey Hunter delivering the Sermon on the Mount in the Sam Bronston film, "King of Kings," most of them dropped to their knees and made the sign of the cross. It took a long time to make them realize that this was historically inaccurate. Entire villages near Madrid are working in the picture which is budgeted at between $6,000,000 and $8,000,000. They come to work on burros. By the time the film is finished on Sept. 15, they'll be able to come in cars. American productions are bringing prosperity to Spain.

The head of John the Baptist—Robert Ryan plays him—was made in London and flown to Madrid. When the customs inspector opened the box they say he almost fainted.

Otto Preminger is ecstatic over the prospect of being a father—for the first time, I believe.

Drew Pearson flew the man who put the finger on Adolph Eichmann to the United States, to write some stories with and about him.

The problem of anyone getting Ava Gardner for a movie is that she is so wealthy, she does not have to work again. And right now Ava does not seem to be in the mood. She would rather get married and have a baby. But they tell me in Madrid that there is no special man in Miss Gardner's restless life.

I also hear in Madrid that "Soloman and Sheba," made in Spain with Tyrone Power, then Yul Brynner and Gina Lollobrigida, was not a hit here.

Traffic is quite dangerous in Spain. When my cab driver ignored a red light, my Spanish speaking companion told him, "You went through a red light." "Yes, I know," replied the cabbie, explaining cheerfully, "no brakes."

That reminds me of driving once with the late producer Gabriel Pascal, and the driver stopped at the red light. "Why are you stopping?" Gabby demanded. The driver pointed to the light. "You may have my authority to drive through," said Mr. Pascal imperiously.

I bumped into Lon McCallister on Piccadilly. The last time I saw Lon was years and years ago in Hollywood when he was co-starring with Julie London in a picture with Edward G. Robinson. He always had such a baby face. Lon is now very much grown up, has lost some hair, has lived in London for the past two years, is rich from his real estate in Los Angeles and is now doing what he likes doing best—writing. His current book, "Lights, Camera, Murder"—"against a Hollywood background," he told me.

Harold Lloyd Jr. is also in London, to do some television and appear with his act in a night club. I have to give the junior Lloyd an "A" for effort. When you have a millionaire father, the incentive to work is somewhat removed. And when you are the son of a famous parent, people are inclined to say, "Okay, show me."

Eva Gabor, the most practical of the Gabor, received six months rent in advance from husband Dick Brown before they took off for Europe. Dick rents Eva's $500 a month apartment on Fifth Avenue from her for them both. So little Eva received a nice $3,000 from her husband. "His horse also won at Aqueduct," Mrs. Brown informed me jubilantly, "and his winnings paid for the whole trip." I always say, them that has, gets.

Heard in London that Columbia in Hollywood may go the way of Universal, and sell the studio, and lease back some sound stages for film production—unless Mike Frankovich, head of European production for Columbia, agrees to head studio operations in America. Mike is married to Binnie Barnes, they have a beautiful apartment in London at Grosvenor House, and ditto at Sunningdale overlooking the famed golf course. It will be a wrench for them to pack up and leave England, "but whatever is good for Mike is good for me and the children," said Binnie.

Weary Professor Gives Up

No Vacancy in London So He Flew to Atlanta

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — A history professor who said he couldn't find a vacant hotel room in all of London flew 4,000 miles to Atlanta this week in quest of lodging.

Plautus I. Lipsey, Jr. 66, checked into the Piedmont Hotel and apparently dropped off to sleep immediately. At least he didn't answer his telephone.

Lipsey, a professor of Oriental history at Mississippi College, Clinton, Miss., said in an interview before leaving London: "I arrived from Paris late Tuesday. I walked from one hotel to another. I got the same answer everywhere — 'sorry, sir, we're full up.'"

"For three hours I called hotels. Nowhere did I find a room."

The professor finally found refuge in a Turkish bath, but "they kept waking me up..."

The following morning Lipsey tried several more hotels, then gave up and bought a ticket back to the United States.

Lipsey said he decided to fly to Atlanta because, "I'm a little afraid New York might be full up, too."

He had planned to stay in London for a month.

Five Chop Fingers Off

BURLINGTON, N.C. (AP) — Five Negroes are being held in connection with a weird scheme to defraud four insurance companies by purposely cutting off their own fingers.

Each was charged with filing a false and fraudulent insurance claim, for maiming.

MASTERMIND
Officers described George Bryson, 28, as mastermind of the scheme. It all began, they said, when Bryson took out $3,000 in accident insurance plus a policy that would give him $25 a week if he became unemployed.

On Feb. 19, police said, he rented a power saw and his brother James, 19, cut four fingers from his left hand.

George collected $3,135 from his insurance policies, purchased from several companies.

In succeeding months police charge that George talked Thomas Tate, James Rogers and Walter Rogers into taking insurance with a number of companies and letting James cut off four fingers from their left hands with a rented power saw.

In each instance, police said, the men agreed to give George Bryson half the money they collected from the companies.

North Saanich Home Guttled

Bright Dream Crumbles
All in Space of Hours

* * *

Still Dazed by Tragedy

Still dazed after returning from an afternoon at the beach to find their home reduced by fire to four charred walls are Kathleen, 3, Ronald, 4 and

Mrs. Sheila Crampton, 820 Towner Park Road, North Saanich.—(Colonist photo.)

No Insurance
To Cover
$4,000 Loss

The future was bright when 29-year-old truck driver Leslie F. Crampton went to work yesterday.

But by mid-afternoon his dreams of a comfortable home for his expanding family vanished when he learned that fire had gutted his modest North Saanich home, leaving his expectant wife and two children destitute.

NOT COVERED

Sidney volunteer firemen were unable to save the three-room, unfinished home at 820 Towner Park which went up in flames about 3 p.m. The loss, believed to range in the neighborhood of $4,000, was not covered by insurance. Fire started near fuse boxes, said Fire Chief G. A. Gardner.

Sheila Crampton, who is expecting another child in January, at the time was about a mile away, swimming at Madrona Beach with her children, Ronald, 4, and Kathleen, 3, and a neighbor woman.

ALL UNSUSPECTING

They hadn't heard the fire siren, "came home all unsuspecting and there it was." She had left the children's "decent shoes" at home because she "didn't want them ruined at the beach."

Friends, some boys and police combed the area in a fruitless search for a seven-month-old Labrador dog, Duke, which broke from the burning home after arrival of firemen and disappeared in the bush.

SPENT THE NIGHT

The family spent the night at the home of Roy Tate, 9755 West Saanich Road. Offers of assistance were coming in last night but Mr. Crampton wasn't aware of where they stood. "We're still kind of confused and bewildered," he said.

The house—with a combination kitchen and sitting room, two bedrooms and bathroom—was built by Mr. Crampton during the past five years while they lived there.

EVERY BOARD

"I was hoping to add two bedrooms this summer and put in the cement work for a living room," he said. "I put every board in it and I was hoping to make it large enough for my family."

Mr. Crampton owns 10 acres of land and is cultivating tulip bulbs. He has been driving a fuel oil truck since November. Neighbors said he is respected for the hard work he has put into his home.

"I'm grateful to the neighbors who offered help," he said. "I don't want to impose on people. I guess I'll take time off from work, scratch up some lumber and start over. I'll let the tulips go until I can get a roof over our heads."

Firemen said the blaze "had a terrific hold when we got there." It flared up again about 8 p.m. and the firemen were called back. Rescued before flames engulfed the home were a television set, a couch and an old refrigerator.

B.C. Zones Set
In Civil Defence

V. S. GODFREY
... director

Provincial Secretary Wesley Black yesterday announced division of B.C. into six civil defence zones.

The move, he said, "will mean more efficient province-wide civil defence organization."

The Greater Victoria and Greater Vancouver areas will each be a zone, with Commodore V. S. Godfrey, the Greater Victoria target area director, remaining zone director. Harold C. Snider will be director of the western zone, with headquarters at Nanaimo. Other three zones are eastern, central and northern.

Sight to Terrify the Enemy

Five Victoria high school students charge the enemy at Work Point Barracks in an exercise as part of the young soldier training plan now underway in Victoria, Vernon and Vancouver. For six weeks during the summer the young men live in barracks and live the life of soldiers. During the rest of the year they take part in regular militia training.—(Colonist photo.)

Hees Here Aug. 12

Important Statement
Expected on Airport

An "important statement" concerning Victoria International Airport may be made soon, Victoria's member of Parliament said.

Home from Ottawa on "urgent constituency matters," A. DeB. McPhillips told the Colonist last night that Transport Minister George Hees, "who takes a personal interest in airports, will be here at Victoria International Airport Aug. 12."

IMPORTANT STATEMENT

"I think at that time he will make an important statement regarding it. It certainly will have relation to the terminal building, and it may be more extensive."

Mr. McPhillips also brought news of an impending visit to Victoria of 80 members of parliament and their wives.

The group—"They're all eastern members and haven't been to the Pacific Coast before"—will come to Victoria in September, will spend a day in the city and will see a timber operation up-island the next day, he said.

CABINET CHANGES

Mr. McPhillips noted that a minister will have to be appointed for the new federal forestry department, and said that "coincident with that, I wouldn't be surprised if there might be some cabinet changes."

Had he heard reports that Defence Minister Peakes might be appointed B.C.'s next lieutenant-governor?

"That's quite often discussed in Ottawa, but I have no other comment to make," he said.

One report that had reached Ottawa and other eastern cities, he said, was that Dr. Hugh Keenleyside had called Victoria the dirtiest city in Canada. (Actually, Dr. Keenleyside said the dirtiest he had lived in.)

"If he included Ottawa," said Mr. McPhillips, "he must have been there with his eyes shut, because it's far from clean."

"I feel he has done Victoria a great deal of disservice. It's the kind of thing that hurts Victoria, a tourist city."

"Some of the eastern papers indicated it was not in accordance with the facts, because they knew Victoria was a clean city. Very poor taste, his remarks. A disservice."

A. DeB. McPHILLIPS

Big Crowd
Expected
For Games

A big turnout is expected for the Highland Games today at Victoria High School. There is a record entry of close to 200 in the Highland dancing and piping competitions. Novice and junior events start at 9 a.m. Track and field competition, beginning at 1:30, has drawn more than 150 athletes, including B.C. Olympic team members.

Saanich Plans
No Water Curb

Hot, dry weather of the last month may have kept Saanich firemen busy with grass fires, but so far Saanich Reeve George Chatterton remains unperturbed over the water supply situation.

Early in June Saanich council gave Reeve Chatterton emergency powers to impose water restrictions should a critical situation arise.

NO RESTRICTIONS

"So far," he said yesterday, "we are not at the point where I have even considered restrictions. Certainly the days have been warm, but the cool nights have helped. The only complaints we have received, with one general exception, proved individual cases where something specific had gone wrong—and was fixed."

"The 'general exception' is the Ten-Mile-Point area, where pressure is admittedly very low. However, our engineers are now drawing up plans to remedy the problem, and we hope to have something ready for the ratepayers in the fall."

GO AHEAD

"It was necessary to learn first where the Greater Victoria Water Board intended to place their new reservoir, and once we learned it would be on Mt. Tolmie we could go ahead with plans."

"This reservoir should permit a definite increase of water pressure in the Ten-Mile-Point district."

Ham, Eggs
All Set
For Fliers

Eighty dozen fried eggs, 50 pounds of ham and more than 1,000 pancakes will constitute breakfast for at least 700 visitors to the first annual "fly-in" to Victoria this Sunday.

The breakfast for visitors will be served at 8:30 a.m., a spokesman for Victoria Flying Services, the sponsoring organization, said. However, food will be served most of the day.

More than 80 visiting aircraft are expected from as far away as Salt Lake City and Portland.

"Many years ago a fly-in to Victoria was held," he said, "but this is the first official meet."

Out-of-town visitors will be taken on a conducted bus tour of Greater Victoria. "Dining room" will be in the Victoria Flying Services hangar at Patricia Bay.

School Finally Ends
For Summer Students

School finally ended yesterday for 488 Greater Victoria secondary school students who gave up 20 days of their summer holidays to better their academic standings.

Crashes
Injure
Seven

Seven persons, none seriously injured, were taken to hospital yesterday from three traffic accidents.

In satisfactory condition at Royal Jubilee Hospital is Mrs. Monica Shoultice, 6051 Hunt Road, whose car jumped a ditch on Shelbourne, struck a tree and slammed into a large rock. She escaped with a cut on the nose.

Treated at same hospital after a two-car collision at Empress and Cook were Nancy Tweter, 1130 Queens, and sisters Nancy, Delta and Fay Sahlin, 1128 Queens.

Bicyclist Michael Newstead, 7, 909 Kings, and passenger Robert G. Stanton, 6, 2522 Rose, were treated at St. Joseph's for minor injuries received when struck by a car at Wark and Bay.

What they had learned in mornings spent in the classroom and an average of three hours homework daily during the month of July was put to the test yesterday when they wrote examinations.

Results will be received by students in the mail by Thursday at the latest. School board officials said yesterday it would do no good if anxious students—or parents—asked for results by telephone.

A spokesman said yesterday the students—290 of them completing Grade 9 and 198 from senior high schools—deserve to be complimented for voluntarily attending the summer session. He added: "If they've learned nothing else... perhaps they've learned to work."

The summer classes in English literature and language for senior high students and in English, mathematics, social studies and science for junior high students are supported by student fees.

Another 338 attended a special summer school for bandmen and members of school orchestras. It is also self-supporting.

Voting Registration
Starts on Monday

Registration for the 1960 civic voters' list will open Monday at city hall and continue through August and September.

Only "resident-electors" whose names were not on last year's list and "tenant-electors" need register. A resident-elect is a resident of the city, not a property-owner, who has lived in the city for at least six months before registering. A tenant-elect is a person or corporation in occupation of property in the city for at least six months, but not resident in the city.

Property-owners' names are placed on the list automatically, and resident-electors previously listed are mailed forms to return, confirming that they still are eligible.

Lots of Planning

No Starting Date Given
For Woodward's Store

A department store such as Woodward's intends to build at Hillside Plaza "takes a lot of planning," Victoria manager Courtney Haddock said yesterday, and the company is busy making and revising plans.

As a result, he indicated, no definite starting date for construction has been set yet.

When the company's intention to build the $3,500,000 store was announced June 21, a start on bulldozing for foundations within two months was forecast. The store is scheduled to be in operation sometime in 1962.

Bad Regimes Not Result Of Illiteracy

VANCOUVER (CP) — Nigerian government representative in New York, P. C. Asiodu, told a UBC seminar on Africa illiterates do not necessarily elect bad governments.

"It is argued that illiterates are invariably ignorant of the issues," he said, "but even in highly literate countries one doubts whether the average literacy and intelligence are of sufficient order to enable the electors to decide with knowledge the more highly complex and technical issues they are invited to judge."

Tears and Laughter Scots Winging On Way 'Home'

Amid excitement, tears, laughter and the inviting pl-ploph of "Over the Sea to Skye" 72 Victoria Scots boarded a special Super-Constellation at Patricia Bay airport yesterday morning headed for Prestwick, Ayr.

It was the long planned Scottish odyssey of the St. Andrew's and Caledonian Society came to fruition.

AIRPORT THRONED
Hundreds of well-wishers thronged the airport to see them off. The pipe band of the Canadian Scottish cadets was on hand to play lilting airs and put them in the mood. Mayor and Mrs. Scourrah were there to bid them God-speed and deliver to James Marrs, the tour organizer and leader of the tour party, letters of greeting to various Scottish Provosts.

Good organization assured a streamlined departure. The trippers—the youngest a babe in arms and the oldest a frail lady in her 70s—met as arranged at Holyrood House. There they were served coffee and cookies, and were checked in. The women were given corsages of roses and heather.

SPECIAL BUSES
Special buses arrived and after all the cameras had clicked and goodbyes were said, the Victoria Scots rolled out to Pat Bay.

There the Constellation plane, making the first direct flight of its kind from Pat Bay with a full complement of passengers, was standing fueled and ready. More goodbyes, more photographs, and then the plane rose smoothly and headed like a bird eager as its passengers to get to Scotland.

OPEN LOCAL EYES
Over there a bit of B.C. will open the local eyes, for aboard the plane were three spanking 15-pound salmon from the West Coast of the Island, which will be presented to the Provosts of Prestwick and Ayr and the Royal Highland Fusiliers.

A big welcome awaits these Victoria Scots at Prestwick, where bagpipes, television crews, press reporters and civic chiefs will greet them as the plane taxis to a stop.

ALSO ON HAND
Also on hand will be other members of the St. Andrew's Society already overseas on a visit, including ex-Alderman Captain D. J. Proudfoot, who completed arrangements for their reception.

The Victoria Scots will go their own way for six weeks in Britain and the Continent, and return as they went away—together.

And, no doubt, with flags flying and the sound of their traditional music ringing in their ears.

E. C. Hunter Guest Pastor

Dr. E. Crossley Hunter, widely-known minister from Toronto, this Sunday starts a four-week period as guest preacher at First United Church.

THE VOICE OF ONE

By REV. DR. FRANK S. MORLEY

Predestination is the only faith with hope for our world. It maintains the eternal purpose of God in creation and history. The alternatives are chance and fatalism which mark the decay of every civilization and which force us to build on Bertrand Russell's "Foundations of Unyielding Despair."

In his rapturous praise of the love of God which men tried to force into the strait-jacket of mathematical theology, Paul said, "We know that all things work together for good to them that love God, to them who are the called according to His purpose. For whom He did foreknow, He also did predestinate to be conformed to the image of His Son..."

Any concept of predestination that clashes with the fact that God is perfect love is misinterpretation. A Mohammedan legend says that at creation God took a piece of clay and broke it into fragments tossing some upward saying, "These to heaven and I care not," and tossing others downward saying, "These to hell and I care not." This is utterly contrary to the Christian teaching.

Whom did God "foreknow?" Everybody! "Ho, everyone that thirsteth! 'God so loved the world... that whatsoever believeth in Him...' "If any man hear my voice and open the door..."

Predestination maintains both God's victorious purpose and man's freedom. God has a plan for every life, but man may rebel. Through the whole Bible man is held responsible for his acts and able to decide for or against: "I have set before you life and death; therefore choose life."

Without faith in God's purpose and interest in you, then you must be weak. People without this faith have an inferiority complex. They say, "I can't... I don't matter..." But the Christian says, "I know where I'm going and I know who's going with me."

Gospel Reaching Millions On Asia, Africa Radios

By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press International

If Christianity hopes to win more than a precarious foothold in Africa and Asia, it must learn how to use modern methods of mass communication.

It also must present its universal gospel in "native dress," without the incidental trappings of western culture which cause dark-skinned people to regard it as a "white man's religion."

These are the guiding convictions of Ravemeco, an inter-denominational missionary agency which is developing creative new techniques for the age-old work of Christian evangelism.

Ravemeco's full name, which certainly needs abbreviating, is "the radio, visual education and mass communications committee of the division of foreign missions of the National Council of Churches."

FOUNDED IN 1948
It was founded in 1948, with financial backing from 11 major Protestant denominations.

Despite this handicap, Ravemeco has demonstrated that Christianity can reach the rapidly multiplying millions of the underdeveloped countries in the same way that Communist propagandists and soap salesmen are reaching them—namely, through the skillful use of radio, movies, film strips, picture cards and other mass media.

One of the most impressive results of this co-operation is Korea's Christian Broadcasting System, which now has three radio stations on the air and five more under development.

PHILIPPINES
In the Philippines, radio station DYSR, operated by the Philippine Federation of Christian Churches, is on the air 77 hours a week. About a third of its programs are specifically "religious." The rest are news, music, entertainment and educational programs.

Plans are now underway to build a powerful short-wave transmitter in the Philippines to beam Christian programs to all parts of southeast Asia, including areas under Communist control.

A similar station will be built in Ethiopia to cover a large area of the Middle East and Africa.

VICTORIA TRUTH CENTRE

New location of the Victoria Symphony Society's annual garden party will be the grounds of the Tri-Services College at Royal Roads. Main feature of the party arranged by the Women's Committee will be a fashion show featuring T. Eaton Co. fall styles. Three of the models taking part are Hilary Dave, left, seven-year-old Linda Miller, and Vivi Petersen, ex-Miss Victoria. Mrs. Frank Mackenzie Ross will open the affair at 2 p.m. on Saturday, Aug. 6.

PERSONAL MENTION

Mr. H. Friser Frederiksen, Consul for Denmark, will pay a farewell call on the Lieutenant-Governor on Monday prior to his departure from Vancouver. On Tuesday the Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. Ross will hold a reception at Government House for overseas air cadets and their escorting officials, and members of the B.C. provincial committee.

The Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. Ross will attend an afternoon reception given by Mr. and Mrs. Frederick C. Sweet at their residence in Vancouver on Wednesday. Miss Ruth MacLean will accompany His Honor and Mrs. Ross.

The Lieutenant-Governor will attend a luncheon in the Vancouver Club on Thursday given by Mr. Frank N. Youngman for Mr. Reed O. Hunt and Mrs. Ross will attend a ladies luncheon given by Mrs. Youngman for Mrs. Reed at the Georgian Club.

The same evening His Honor and Mrs. Ross will dine with Princess Chikmatoff and Mr. and Mrs. Ian Ross prior to attending the symphony concert at Butchart Gardens.

Wedding This Evening

The marriage will take place this evening at 8 p.m. in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, of Miss June Oakley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Oakley, to Mr. James Blair McLean, son of Rev. Dr. and Mrs. J. L. McLean. Dr. and Mrs. McLean have returned to Victoria from their summer home at Shawnigan for the wedding.

At Deep Cove

Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Lyne who were married in Vancouver last week are spending a few days with Mr. Lyne's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. R. Lammer at their home at Deep Cove before travelling to Kelowna where they will live.

TIPS FOR PARENTS

By HELEN R. HEWSON

Mother flitted through the kitchen in her spike-heeled shoes and smart costume, slipped the dishes into the dishwasher, flipped a switch for the ventilator fan, dropped a few garments into the automatic washer and returned to the living room to join her man of distinction and a scrubbed and curled small daughter—on the TV screen.

In dulcet tones the commercials beguile us with stories of less work, less effort, more time to enjoy—what?

No one would wish to return to the scrub board and the old-fashioned range, but the routine chores of housework were not all grind.

In our childhood days we had the good fortune to know many housewives with sparkle, imagination and more than a touch of originality as they went about their daily cooking, sewing and cleaning.

To them housework was a job that allowed plenty of scope for their creative talents.

They enjoyed it and took great pride in their neat homes, their fluffy cakes and delicious preserves.

They had time too, time to sit on the porch with fan and cool lemonade and talk to small girls on a summer afternoon, time to thread a needle and guide uncertain fingers as they made their first meandering seams, time to make a chicken pie for the church social and time for a freezer full of ice cream for Sunday dinner.

Today we have ready-mixes and frozen foods that are extra good "because you cook 'em yourself!"

Removing many of the traditional tasks from home to processor has also cut down on the readymade opportunities for family companionship.

While hands were busy with iron, needle or mixing spoon, information and opinions were shared, sometimes in a cosy chat, sometimes with asperity. There was a closeness and a vigor in family life that is lacking in many households today.

Farewell Party

Executive of the medical staff of the Royal Jubilee Hospital and members of the board of directors gave a party recently to honor Miss Mary Richmond, Director of Nursing, who is leaving the hospital next month to take up a senior post at McGill University. The party was held at the home of Dr. and Mrs. W. A. Trenholme, 3195 Humber Road. Miss Richmond, centre, is pictured with Mrs. Trenholme and Mr. George Masters, superintendent of the hospital.

Parties to Honor Miss Mai Jordan

Miss Mai Jordan whose marriage to Mr. Daniel Hall takes place today was honored at several showers recently. A miscellaneous shower for her was held at the home of her aunt, Mrs. E. H. Armstrong, 511 McKenzie Street. A corsage of pink carnations was given to the guest of honor, her mother, Mrs. J. Jordan, and mother of the groom-elect, Mrs. H. Hall, received yellow carnations. Two cousins of the bride-elect, Lorne Armstrong and Gordon Taylor wheeled the gifts into the room in an imitation trunk. Guests included Mrs. L. Jordan, Mrs. A. Mitchell, Mrs. R. Mitchell, Mrs. R. Taylor, Mrs. R. Manger, Mrs. A. Walker, Miss G. Wilson, Mrs. G. Hebdon, Mrs. S. Jordan, Misses Shirley and Carol Jordan.

Mrs. G. Moonie, 170 Hartland Avenue, gave a surprise kitchen shower for Miss Jordan. Corsages of sweet peas and heather were presented to the bride-elect and her mother. Guests included Mrs. E. Moonie, Mrs. P. Mindenhall, Mrs. D. King, Mrs. C. Mayhew, Mrs. A. Whitburn, Mrs. H. Roberts, Mrs. F. Miller, Mrs. A. Wilson, Mrs. R. Birch, Mrs. B. Pederson, Mrs. L. Gordon, Mrs. J. Wilson, Mrs. C.

Your Problems

By Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: I am so embarrassed I could just die. I've been going steady with an awfully sweet guy who works in the same department store. I'm 20, he's 21.

Dale is from a small town about 100 miles from here. He goes home every other Sunday and takes his, soiled laundry so his mother can wash and iron it.

Yesterday I got a brief note from Dale's mother—whom I've never met. She wrote:

"Dear Miss—
The lipstick you are using is indecent and it is ruining Dale's shirts. I would appreciate it very much if you would change brands. Thank you very much. Mrs. —"

This woman may be my mother-in-law one day and I don't want to make any mistakes. What shall I do?—INDELIBLE IMPRESSION.

Dear Indelible: Change brands at once and drop Dale's mother a note informing her of the switch.

Dear Ann Landers: Your column is great for teenagers, but I'm 42 years old and I've just realized that I have more trouble than I'm capable of handling.

My husband is on the road constantly. I have an 18-year-old son who is driving me berserk. What am I supposed to do? Let him have the car whenever he wants it? Turn over the house to him and his friends and lock myself in my room so the kids won't feel "inhibited"? Or should I get tough and put him in the army as soon as possible and let THEM worry about him for the next two years?

I need a rest from this kid. He is becoming unbearable. Thanks for any answer you may give. You aren't always right but you do your best.—PRESCOTT, ARIZONA.

Dear Mother: If this boy is 18 and you're just realizing he's more than you can handle, where have you been for the last several years?

No—you're not supposed to give him the car whenever he wants it, or let him take over the house. You're supposed to let him know that if he wants privileges he must accept responsibilities. What does this kid have to do besides live it up? The boy's father is partly to blame whether he's on the road or not.

Don't expect the army to transform your son into a model of perfection. They have to work with the material they get. Maybe a change of environment, away from the hostility and friction of home will be good for the boy. You should have had professional help a long time ago. Good luck.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a 19-year-old girl who is making wedding plans. I need help and I don't mean with etiquette problems. I have serious people problems.

My mother has been married five times. I have an aunt who has been married four

Chanel Pleats Skirts

By PEGGY MASSIN

PARIS (Reuters) — This season's variations on the timeless Chanel look are pleats and plaids.

In the Chanel collection Friday, box-pleated skirts shown with Chanel's cardigan sweater jackets are stitched to the hipline and then swing out in easy fullness.

Shadow plaids in oversize black and white suits are banded with inch-wide dark wool braid.

Once again this inimitable designer has gone her own way, regardless of all other Paris trends. Chanel is as great an individualist as her close personal friend, Balenciaga, whom she has nicknamed "Christobal the magnificent."

Chanel's favorite Breton sailor hat, which is her own personal choice as well, is shown tipped forward to eyebrow level. It matches boy dresses and suits in identical fabrics with wool braid trims of contrasting colored edgings. Models have thick bangs accented with saucy hair ribbons.

Winning Contract

By HOWARD SCHENKEN and RICHARD L. FREY

In most cases, it is important to know general rules like "second hand high," "cover an honor with an honor," etc. Also you must know how to use the hold-up play when opponents have opened their long suit against your no-trump contract. Most important is to recognize the exceptions.

With a rather shoddy spade suit in a good hand, North might have preferred a one-diamond response. However, with 28 high-card points in the combined hands, the final contract appeared safe and solid. Declarer ducked the opening lead, East won the king, dummy ducked again, and a third diamond was played. South needed the club suit to make nine tricks, but West got in with the king and cashed two more diamonds. South said he was very unlucky. Was he?

If South had thought for a moment at trick one, he would have realized that only a five-card diamond suit could endanger the hand. In that case, East was far more likely to have started with king-small or queen-small, as West would probably have led the king from a five-card suit headed by king-queen ten or king-queen-nine. Therefore, declarer should have played dummy's ace at trick one in an effort to block the suit.

It would not help East to drop his king as he couldn't regain the lead in time to do any damage. An immediate club finesse, even though it lost, would then have insured the contract.

151 COUNTRY HOMES AND PROPERTIES 'SEAFRONTAGE'

A superb ever-changing panoramic view of Juan de Fuca Strait world and coastal shipping, against a background of snow-capped peaks. The authentic cedar log residence approx. 1,500 square feet was built by craftsmen in exacting requirements, and is probably one of the finest homes of its type. The natural stone fireplace, large plate glass windows, modern equipped kitchen, high cement basement with oil heating unit all indicate an expensive and comfortable residence. The setting of 3 1/2 acres of virgin timber and landscaped lawns enhances the appearance of this beautiful home. Now, original owner's planning residence in Europe gives you this opportunity to purchase this residential estate property at less than replacement cost.

Indians Invade Britain

No Scalping, Shooting But Old Lady Scared

By STEWART MACLEOD
PORTSMOUTH, Eng. (CP)—Fifteen full-blooded Canadian Indians "invaded" this English seaport Thursday and some of the residents still are wondering what happened.

NO SCALPING

It's not that the Indians scalped anyone or shot up the city with arrows, but they clearly did the next worst thing. They fouled up the bus queues.

Running through the narrow streets of Portsmouth, waving their lances and feathers, the Indians delighted the thousands who knew what they came for. It was the few who didn't know that were worst watching.

"Here," shouted an old lady, as she jumped with fright from her spot in the bus queue, "they should get rid of this lot, they should."

The Indians, wearing the tribal costumes of nine Canadian nations, ran through the streets, upon sidewalks, in and out of buses, and occasionally stuck their painted faces in an open window.

The Indians came to Portsmouth with a 25-foot totem pole which was presented to HMS Excellent, a gunnery school on nearby Whale Island, by the Canadian Navy. It was in appreciation of the 50 years of instruction given to Canadian sailors at the school.

The totem pole was handed over to Capt. J. S. Dalglish, commanding officer of the school, but not before he was made a brave of the Sioux tribe.

DESTROYER-ESCORTS

The 15 Indians, all serving members of the Canadian Navy, came to Portsmouth on four destroyer-escorts, Gatineau, St. Croix, Terra Nova and Kootenay. They were led by Sub-Lt. Bill Sheard of Selkirk, Man., a Cree.

The totem pole, carved at Thunderbolt Park by Mungo Martin, chief of the Kwakiutl, will be mounted on a piece of Nova Scotia granite, near the entrance to the gunnery school.

Scalded Baby Left in Tub

ST. THOMAS, Ont. (CP)—Eleven-month-old Judy Schram died in hospital from a scalding received in a bathtub Wednesday. Police said the child was left in the tub with two older children by her mother, Mrs. Jacqueline Schram, 19. One of the children is believed to have turned on the hot water and scrambled out, leaving the baby.

Three More Hit By Polio Virus

VANCOUVER (CP)—An RCAF Dakota yesterday brought the third polio patient from Prince George in the last 24 hours.

The eldest spokesmen said they did not know the identity of the latest patient.

Meanwhile, Vancouver General Hospital reports Mrs. Margaret Westergaard, 30, and Margaret Morrissey, 12, are in satisfactory condition. They were flown to Vancouver Thursday.

Lay Readers Praised By Dean

On the eve of licensing a new lay reader at Christ Church Cathedral, Dean Brian Whitlow this week praised the help given to the church by holders of this ancient and honorable office.

This lay reader, to be licensed Sunday morning, is James Pearce. He will share duties with Col. H. F. Webber and H. H. Smith.

Dean Whitlow said all Cathedral staff clergy start each weekday by saying matins together, led by each in turn. However, other duties often prevent their presence at evensong, so this service is conducted by the lay readers, taking duty turns for two days each.

Largest Selling Beer in the Entire West

LUCKY LAGER
the real lager beer

Lucky Lager has a straight-forward strength, a character you just don't get in other beers... HERE'S WHY:

Lucky Lager combines the best barley, the most flavorful hops, the purest water and the most modern brewing. Nothing but the best can produce true Lager beer.

Lucky Lager is a special process from start to finish. A famous German brewing technique and extra ageing gives Lucky Lager its renowned body, taste and aroma.

Lucky Lager has a clean-cut taste that says "real beer." Germans call Lager "wunderbares Bier" — the magnificent beer. British Columbians call it Lucky Lager.

CHICAGO—Gov. Nelson Rockefeller has pledged his all-out support to Richard Nixon in the presidential race because the Republican nominee has shown he is "willing to plant his standard in the ground and stand by it."

The New York governor said Nixon in his acceptance speech went even further than the party's platform makers in embracing the policies blueprinted in the 14-point Nixon-Rockefeller manifesto.

Nixon, meanwhile, candidly conceded that Republicans are underdogs in the 1960 race but he still thinks he can beat the Democrats' John Kennedy in November.

He also said he will place his running mate, Henry Cabot Lodge, in charge of the administration's cold war economic forces if he wins his White House bid.

Lodge said he will give up his duties as U.S. ambassador to the UN when he begins campaigning actively for the vice-presidency because politics and diplomacy don't mix.

JAKARTA, Indonesia — President Sukarno of Indonesia has received the 1960 Lenin Peace Prize.

LOS ANGELES — Carolee Treppoff went softly in court as her ex-husband testified at her murder retrial how she left him for Dr. R. Bernard Finch, James Joseph Pappa, 26-year-old construction worker said he thought Carolee's relationship with the surgeon was strictly "business" until he received a telephone call from Mrs. Finch.

VANCOUVER — Prince Philip will preside over the closing session of the second Commonwealth conference here in June, 1962.

LONDON — Prince Philip limped and leaned on a cane at the Goodwood races which he attended with Queen Elizabeth. A palace spokesman said "I suppose it must be" an old polo injury.

RIO DE JANEIRO — A pick-pocket stole $500 from American singer Dorothy Dandridge and escaped in the crowd of newsmen and photographers covering her arrival.

MONTREAL — Clement White, 53, engineer of a commuter train that collided head-on with a freight train Saturday—killing one woman and injuring more than 60 persons—said Friday instructions he received to wait on a siding for the freight to pass "just slipped my mind."

Mother Admits Slaying Girl Coached In Poison Plot

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI)—A slender brunette mother yesterday told police how she enlisted the aid of her 11-year-old daughter in the bizarre poison-slaying of her wealthy farmer husband because he was "mean."

Mrs. Carolyn Sally Britton, 26, said she coached her daughter, Rita, in feeding her husband, Roy Richmond Britton, 31, a fatal dose of poison. She said the poison was disguised as vitamin pills.

Mrs. Britton, whose other daughter, 2, died "under mysterious circumstances" two years ago, calmly accused her husband of being "mean" to her and the children.

The attractive farm housewife, who authorities said had a record of mental illness, was held on involuntary manslaughter charges, pending a grand jury probe.

Following her admission in the slaying of her husband, Mrs. Britton was given a lie

Live Torpedo Tamed by Seadogs in Wild Deck Ride

OTTAWA (CP) — Retiring seadog Harry DeWolf related Friday how he once rode a live torpedo around the deck of his ship. The wild ride saved his destroyer and his crew.

With him on the ride was PO Sam Ridge of Eridon, on Vancouver Island.

The account, previously untold in the official navy records, must be one of the most hair-raising personal sea stories of the Second World War.

At Sunday midnight, Vice-Admiral DeWolf, 57, a sailor since he was 16, hands over his post of chief of naval staff to Vice-Admiral Herbert Rayner, 49, until recently flag officer, Pacific Coast.

Sam Ridge also recently retired from the navy with more than 30 years' service. He was commissioned from the lower decks and attained the rank of lieutenant-commander.

The incident, related in an interview by Admiral DeWolf, occurred in 1940, when he was commander of the destroyer St. Laurent on Atlantic convoy. It was prompted by the recollection that Admiral DeWolf at the time was in the process of turning over command of the St. Laurent to Admiral Rayner.

Admiral DeWolf did not tell of his direct and courageous part in the incident until Admiral Rayner brought it up.

The external mechanism of a live, armed torpedo was being painted by a sailor who lifted the safety catch to paint underneath and then lifted the firing handle to paint under that.

"The torpedo fired, naturally,

and ran wild on the deck," Admiral DeWolf said.

"It slammed into the deck-house, bounced off and kept charging around.

OTTAWA (CP)—A sharp increase in tax collections helped produce a federal government surplus of $156,200,000 in the first quarter of the current fiscal year, Finance Minister Fleming's office reported Friday night.

This compares with a $32,400,000 surplus for the same April-June period of the last fiscal year, which ended March 31.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government space agency Friday disclosed plans to send men into orbit around the earth on journeys lasting from two weeks to two months. The project is scheduled to be started by 1966.

After that, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration said, a crew may be sent on a week-long assignment round the moon and back.

But there's no plan for a man-on-the-moon project before 1970.

The agency also hopes to gently land a truck-mounted robot laboratory on the face of the moon and move it by remote control about a 50-mile-radius lunar circle, taking moon samples.

'Sinister Forces' Threaten Canada Sacred Rally Told

OTTAWA (CP)—Dr. Robert Thompson, newly-elected president of the Social Credit Association of Canada, warned Friday that "sinister forces" are at work in Canada and abroad against which Social Credit offers the only hope of victory.

The 46-year-old Alberta

chiropractor told the national convention that he regards his election as a responsibility to head a team that will take the story of Social Credit and survival to the masses.

STANDING OVATION

Delegates gave him a standing ovation following an election in which he defeated Herbert J. Bruch, 40-year-old Social Credit member of the British Columbia legislature for Esquimalt. Mr. Bruch later was elected a vice-president.

Three vice-presidents, who under a new constitution approved in principle Friday will have equal status, also were elected. They are Rheel Caouette, president of the Quebec Social Credit League; Orvis A. Kennedy, Edmonton, president of the Alberta Social Credit League; and Mr. Bruch. The new president said

HERBERT BRUCH

KAMLOOPS, B.C. (CP) —Twenty-five firefighters were left overnight surrounded by the most serious of British Columbia's 400 forest fires after 43 of their colleagues had been lifted out Friday night by a big RCAF helicopter.

Forest service officials said the men, caught in a burned-over area of the big Lac Le Jeune blaze, 30 miles south of here, were in no immediate danger. They were to be lifted out at dawn.

NO HOPE SEEN

The fire meanwhile moved up to the shore of the lake and lodge operator John Whitaker said he saw no hope of saving his property.

The lodge and adjoining cabins, which accommodate about 50 visitors, are separated from the fire by a narrow stretch of water three-quarters of a mile across. The resort was completely evacuated.

LEAVE COTTAGES

Also evacuated were a number of summer cottages along the lake, including one owned by Justice Minister Fulton. Mrs. Fulton and other members of the family had been staying there.

The trapped men, in an area some distance from the lodge, were reported camped for the night on the lakeshore.

AREA DOUSED

Water bombers were sent in to douse surrounding areas and aircraft dropped food, water and other supplies to the trapped men. They were in radio contact with the forest service headquarters here.

Europe's Unity Parley Theme

PARIS (UPI) — President Charles de Gaulle pressed his idea for speeding up Europe's political unity with West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer yesterday in a meeting behind the sheltering walls of Rambouillet Castle.

The 84-year-old chancellor arrived at the 16th century castle 30 miles outside Paris and quickly went into a secret conference with de Gaulle.

While they talked, French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville discussed other affairs in a separate room with German Foreign Minister Heinrich von Brentano.

De Gaulle, who prefers old-fashioned secret diplomacy, had taken every possible step to ensure that a minimum of information leaked out from his parley with the German leader.

The French president was said to be proposing concrete steps to evolve the existing links between the six Common Market nations into a closely co-ordinated political force.

He favored a political secretariat of foreign ministers as a first step, sources said.

Rickety Old Fire Trap

Macmillan Leaves No. 10 Downing—Just in Time

By EDDY GILMORE

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Harold Macmillan moved out of historic No. 10 Downing Street Friday—and just in time.

Built nearly 300 years ago by Sir George Downing it's about to fall down. The ancient residence of British prime ministers is also a fire

trap. Two years ago a government committee warned:

"We do not think that the prime minister... should continue to live, work and entertain in a building which is structurally unsound—and where risk of fire is substantial."

Undaunted, Macmillan stayed on until just after lunch Friday. Then, he and his wife,

Lady Dorothy, moved to Chequers, the official country home of prime ministers in nearby Buckinghamshire.

The ramshackle old Downing Street building isn't being abandoned, however. In about two or three years a prime minister will again occupy it. By that time it will have been renovated and strengthened—at a cost of $400,000. While No.

10 is being renovated Macmillan's official London residence will be Admiralty House, a few blocks away along Whitehall.

Built on what was once a marsh, the foundations of No. 10 are so shaky that a mechanic stays on duty in order to keep a delicate elevator working. The plumbing is constantly breaking down.

The reception room—where kings, queens, presidents and potentates have been entertained—is propped up with timbers from below. The room where the cabinet meets is shaky. And the whole place is drafty.

For this state of affairs, many Britons blame Sir George.

History books refer to Downing—who built the house about 1664—as a "profligate contractor." Samuel Pepys, the diarist, wrote of him:

"He's so stingy a fellow, I care not to see him."

The British Crown came into possession of the house in 1720 and Sir Robert Walpole is considered the first prime minister to have lived in it.

North Saanich Home Guttled

Bright Dream Crumbles
All in Space of Hours

Still Dazed by Tragedy

Still dazed after returning from an afternoon at the beach to find their home reduced by fire to four charred walls are Kathleen, 3, Ronald, 4 and

Mrs. Sheila Crampton, 820 Towner Park Road, North Saanich.—(Colonist photo.)

No Insurance
To Cover
$4,000 Loss

The future was bright when 29-year-old truck driver Leslie F. Crampton went to work yesterday.

But by mid-afternoon his dreams of a comfortable home for his expanding family vanished when he learned that fire had gutted his modest North Saanich home, leaving his expectant wife and two children destitute.

NOT COVERED

Sidney volunteer firemen were unable to save the three-room, unfinished home at 820 Towner Park which went up in flames about 3 p.m. The loss, believed to range in the neighborhood of $4,000, was not covered by insurance. Fire started near fuse boxes, said Fire Chief G. A. Gardner.

Sheila Crampton, who is expecting another child in January, at the time was about a mile away, swimming at Madrona Beach with her children, Ronald, 4½, and Kathleen, 3½, and a neighbor woman.

ALL UNSUSPECTING

They hadn't heard the fire siren, "came home all unsuspecting and there it was." She had left the children's "decent shoes" at home because she didn't want them ruined at the beach.

Friends, some boys and police combed the area in a fruitless search for a seven-month-old Labrador dog, Duke, which broke from the burning home after arrival of firemen and disappeared in the bush.

SPENT THE NIGHT

The family spent the night at the home of Roy Tuttle, 9755 West Saanich Road. Offers of assistance were coming in last night but Mr. Crampton wasn't aware of where they stood. "We're still kind of confused and bewildered," he said.

The house—with a combination kitchen and sitting room, two bedrooms and bathroom—was built by Mr. Crampton during the past five years while they lived there.

EVERY BOARD

"I was hoping to add two bedrooms this summer and put in the cement work for a living room," he said. "I put every board in it and I was hoping to make it large enough for my family."

Mr. Crampton owns 10 acres of land and is cultivating tulip bulbs. He has been driving a fuel oil truck since November. Neighbors said he is respected for the hard work he has put into his home.

"I'm grateful to the neighbors who offered help," he said. "I don't want to impose on people. I guess I'll take time off from work, scratch up some lumber and start over. I'll let the tulips go until I can get a roof over our heads."

Firemen said the blaze "had a terrific hold when we got there." It flared up again about 8 p.m. and the firemen were called back. Rescued before flames engulfed the home were a television set, a couch and an old refrigerator.

B.C. Zones Set
In Civil Defence

V. S. GODFREY
... director

Provincial Secretary Wesley Black yesterday announced division of B.C. into six civil defence zones.

The move, he said, "will mean more efficient province-wide civil defence organization."

The Greater Victoria and Greater Vancouver areas will each be a zone, with Commodore V. S. Godfrey, the Greater Victoria target area director, remaining zone director. Harold C. Snider will be director of the western zone, with headquarters at Nanaimo. Other three zones are eastern, central and northern.

Mr. McPhillips also brought news of an impending visit to Victoria of 80 members of parliament and their wives. The group—"They're all eastern members and haven't been to the Pacific Coast before"—will come to Victoria in September, will spend a day in the city and will see a timber operation up-island the next day, he said.

CABINET CHANGES
Mr. McPhillips noted that a minister will have to be appointed for the new federal forestry department, and said that "coincident with that, I wouldn't be surprised if there might be some cabinet changes."

Had he heard reports that Defence Minister Peakes might be appointed B.C.'s next lieutenant-governor? "That's quite often discussed."

An "important statement" concerning Victoria International Airport may be made soon, Victoria's member of Parliament said yesterday.

"I think at that time he will make an important statement regarding it. It certainly will have relation to the terminal building, and it may be more extensive."

Big Crowd
Expected

A big turnout is expected for the Highland Games today at Victoria High School. There is a record entry of close to 300 in the Highland dancing, and piping competitions. Saanich Plans
No Water Curb

Hot, dry weather of the last month may have kept Saanich firemen busy with grass fires, but so far Saanich Reeve George Chatterton remains unperturbed over the water supply situation.

Early in June Saanich council gave Reeve Chatterton emergency powers to impose water restrictions should a critical situation arise.

NO RESTRICTIONS
"So far," he said yesterday, "we are not at the point where I have even considered restrictions. Certainly the days have been warm, but the cool nights have helped. The only complaints we have received, with one general exception, proved individual cases where something specific had gone wrong—and was fixed."

"The 'general exception' is the Ten-Mile-Point area, where pressure is admittedly very low. However, our engineers are now drawing up plans to remedy the problem, and we hope to have something ready for the ratepayers in the fall."

GO AHEAD
"It was necessary to learn first where the Greater Victoria Water Board intended to place their new reservoir, and once we learned it would be on Mt. Tolmie we could go ahead with plans."

"This reservoir should permit a definite increase of water pressure in the Ten-Mile-Point district."

Gardner
Rites Held
In Ganges

GANGES—A resident of Salt Spring Island for 56 years, Charles Gardner, who died in Lady Minto Gulf Islands Hospital following a short illness, was buried Thursday.

Services were conducted in St. George's Church, Ganges, by Archdeacon G. H. Holmes, followed by interment in St. Mark's cemetery. Pallbearers were Bob Collins, V. Case Morris, Gavin C. Mout, Jack Nelson, Ted Brown and H. Van Buskirk.

Mr. Gardner, who was 93 years of age, was born in Stratford-on-Avon, England. He came to Canada in 1889, travelled over most of the United States and Canada, and participated in the 1898 Yukon gold rush, before coming to Salt Spring Island in 1904.

He was predeceased by his wife in 1943, and by a daughter in 1924.

Two sons survive, Mervyn, of Ganges, and Audley, of Victoria; one daughter, Mrs. Freda Little, Port Alberni.

Cairn to Recall
Fallen Veterans

LAKE COWICHAN—A four-sided rock cairn on a triangle of land raised above street level will be erected here at the busiest intersection in the village to commemorate the dead of two wars.

Work is to start shortly on the $1,000 volunteer labor project sponsored by the Legion on land donated by the provincial government.

It will be at the intersection of North and South Shore Roads on land measuring 60 by 56 by 82 feet. A three-foot-wide sidewalk will be around it, with stairs from one side leading up to a lawn.

On one side will be crossed rifles. Another side will have a bronze plaque with an inscription "In Memory of Those Who Served."

Donations may be mailed to the Legion cenotaph fund.

Live Torpedo Tamed by Seadogs in Wild Deck Ride

OTTAWA (CP) — Retiring seadog Harry DeWolf related Friday how he once rode a live torpedo around the deck of his ship. The wild ride saved his destroyer and his crew.

With him on the ride was PO Sam Ridge of Errington, on Vancouver Island.

The account, previously untold in the official navy records, must be one of the most hair-raising personal sea stories of the Second World War.

At Sunday midnight, Vice-Admiral DeWolf, 57, a sailor since he was 16, hands over his post of chief of naval staff to Vice-Admiral Herbert Rayner, 49, until recently flag officer, Pacific Coast.

Sam Ridge also recently retired from the navy with more than 30 years' service. He was commissioned from the lower decks and attained the rank of lieutenant-commander.

The incident, related in an interview by Admiral DeWolf, occurred in 1940, when he was commander of the destroyer St. Laurent on Atlantic convoy. It was prompted by the recollection that Admiral DeWolf at the time was in the process of turning over command of the St. Laurent to Admiral Rayner.

Admiral DeWolf did not tell of his direct and courageous part in the incident until Admiral Rayner brought it up.

The external mechanism of a live, armed torpedo was being painted by a sailor who lifted the safety catch to paint underneath and then lifted the firing handle to paint under that.

"The torpedo fired, naturally,

and ran wild on the deck," Admiral DeWolf said.

"It slammed into the deck-house, bounced off and kept charging around.

"Everybody, including me, was scared. The decks cleared pretty rapidly.

"Since we thought we were all going up any second, Petty Officer Ridge and myself decided to try to tame the torpedo.

"We got astride it. It was as slippery as a greased pig and we thought its propeller might cut our feet off.

"We rode and guided it over to the rail and stuck one leg over the rail to hold it steady.

The propeller was making a tremendous racket on the iron deck. We finally managed to release the air cock. (The torpedo was driven by compressed air.)

"We still had a live torpedo. When we got to port in the United Kingdom we hoisted it on the wall and left it there. I reported to headquarters but I don't know what became of the torpedo."

The first thing Admiral DeWolf plans to do on retirement is to go fishing. He will continue to make his home here.

Forest service officials said the men, caught in a burned-over area of the big Lac Le Jeune blaze, 30 miles south of here, were in no immediate danger. They were to be lifted out at dawn.

The fire meanwhile moved up to the shore of the lake and lodge operator John Whitaker said he saw no hope of saving his property.

The lodge and adjoining cabins, which accommodate about 50 visitors, are separated from the fire by a narrow stretch of water three-quarters of a mile across. The resort was completely evacuated.

LEAVE COTTAGES

Also evacuated were a number of summer cottages along the lake, including one owned by Justice Minister Fulton. Mrs. Fulton and other members of the family had been staying there.

The trapped men, in an area some distance from the lodge, were reported camped for the night on the lakeshore.

Water bombers were sent in to douse surrounding areas and aircraft dropped food, water and other supplies to the trapped men. They were in radio contact with the forest service headquarters here.

Europe's Unity Parley Theme

PARIS (UPI)—President Charles de Gaulle pressed his idea for speeding up Europe's political union with West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer yesterday in a meeting behind the sheltering walls of Rambouillet Castle.

The 84-year-old chancellor arrived at the 16th century castle 30 miles outside Paris and quickly went into a secret conference with de Gaulle.

While they talked, French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville discussed other affairs in a separate room with German Foreign Minister Heinrich von Brentano. De Gaulle, who prefers old-fashioned secret diplomacy, had taken every possible step to ensure that a minimum of information leaked out from his parley with the German leader.

The French president was said to be proposing concrete steps to evolve the existing links between the six Common Market nations into a closely co-ordinated political force.

He favored a political secretariat of foreign ministers as a first step, sources said.

Macmillan Leaves No. 10 Downing—Just in Time

By EDDY GILMORE

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Harold Macmillan moved out of historic No. 10 Downing Street Friday—and just in time.

Built nearly 300 years ago by Sir George Downing it's about to fall down. The ancient official residence of British prime ministers is also a fire

trap. Two years ago a government committee warned:

"We do not think that the prime minister . . . should continue to live, work and entertain in a building which is structurally unsound and where risk of fire is substantial."

Undaunted, Macmillan stayed on until just after lunch Friday. Then, he and his wife,

Lady Dorothy, moved to Chequers, the official country home of prime ministers in nearby Buckinghamshire.

The ramshackle old Downing Street building isn't being abandoned, however. In about two or three years a prime minister will again occupy it.

By that time it will have been renovated and strengthened—at a cost of £400,000. While No.

10 is being renovated Macmillan's official London residence will be Admiralty House, a few blocks away along Whitehall.

Built on what was once a marsh, the foundations of No. 10 are so shaky that a mechanic stays on duty in order to keep a delicate elevator working. The plumbing is constantly breaking down.

The reception room—where kings, queens, presidents and potentates have been entertained—is propped up with timbers from below. The room where the cabinet meets is shaky. And the whole place is drafty.

For this state of affairs, many Britons blame Sir George.

"He's so stingy a fellow, I care not to see him."

The British Crown came into possession of the house in 1720 and Sir Robert Walpole is considered the first prime minister to have lived in it.
